Lease Structures:

$1.00 Buyout	A dollar buyout lease may also be referred to as a capital lease. This type of lease guarantees the option to purchase the equipment for the amount of one dollar ($1) at the conclusion of the lease agreement. Customers that plan to keep the equipment at the end of the lease term typically select the dollar buyout option.
Fair Market Value (FMV) 10% Residual	A fair market value lease may also be referred to as a true lease. This type of lease provides several flexible options at the conclusion of the lease agreement. Typically the lessee will have the option to return the equipment to the lessor, renew the terms, or can purchase the equipment for the fair market value. Many customers that purchase equipment which tend to rapidly decrease in value select this equipment lease structure. The residual on an FMV is typically 10%.
